"America and Americans": A Comprehensive Exploration of the American Identity

In "America and Americans," celebrated historian Henry Steele Commager presents a sweeping and insightful analysis of the American character. Through meticulously researched essays and incisive observations, Commager delves into the core principles, beliefs, and aspirations that have defined the American spirit from its colonial origins to the modern era.

Commager's masterful prose illuminates the complexities of American individualism, the paradoxical balance between liberty and equality, and the enduring influence of the frontier. He examines the nation's racial and ethnic diversity, its economic and social transformations, and the impact of global events on American identity.

By weaving together historical narratives, literary excerpts, and cultural artifacts, "America and Americans" paints a vivid and comprehensive portrait of the American people. It is an indispensable guide for anyone seeking to understand the multifaceted nature of the American experience.

"Selected Nonfiction Penguin Classics": A Treasury of American Literary Nonfiction

Accompanying "America and Americans" is a companion volume entitled "Selected Nonfiction Penguin Classics." This carefully curated anthology presents a diverse selection of classic works by some of the most influential American writers of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Among the literary luminaries featured in this volume are:

- Ralph Waldo Emerson: A pivotal figure in the American Transcendentalist movement, Emerson's essays explore the themes of self-reliance, nature, and spiritual enlightenment.
- Frederick Douglass: A former slave and abolitionist, Douglass's autobiography is a powerful testament to the horrors of slavery and the indomitable human spirit.
- Mary Antin: An immigrant from Russia, Antin's memoir chronicles her experiences of assimilation and the challenges faced by immigrants in the early 20th century.
- W.E.B. Du Bois: A prominent sociologist and civil rights activist, Du Bois's essays delve into the complexities of racial inequality and the struggles of African Americans.

- Zora Neale Hurston: A celebrated Harlem Renaissance writer, Hurston's work explores themes of race, gender, and identity in the American South.

These selections provide unique perspectives on the American experience, from the intellectual ferment of the Transcendentalists to the struggles for racial justice and equality. Together, they offer a kaleidoscopic view of the American character and the myriad voices that have contributed to it.
